Marnie Ireland

Marnie is an outcome-focused leader with over 10 years of experience at a senior executive level, with a proven record for driving equitable prosperity, environmental sustainability and cultural vitality.

In a career spanning over 20 years, Marnie started at Melbourne Water before holding increasingly senior water industry roles including with the Department of Sustainability and Environment developing the governance framework for Sustainable Water Strategies and managing the first Central Region SWS, before shifting focus to business development, governance and Indigenous economic development work. These areas of expertise aligned in providing executive support to the National Cultural Flows Research Project, creating robust frameworks for recognising Aboriginal water rights.
