

SANJANA SHETTY

Waste management Officer at Macedon Ranges Shire Council
OFC Program Delivery Coordinator

“ Sustainability for me is challenging the notion of “business as usual” to bring about better futures for the existing and emerging life on earth. I envision future cities to be resilient, a sustainable ecosystem in itself and sustainability to be a way of life for every individual. ”

OFC's Program Delivery Coordinator Sanjana is an environment professional and an aspiring leader in sustainability. Specialising in corporate environmental and sustainability management and international development and environment in her Master's degree at Monash University, Sanjana is passionate and knowledgeable about sustainability practices and sustainable development using multidisciplinary approaches to produce impact-based outputs in waste, resource and energy management.

Currently working as a waste management officer at Macedon Ranges Shire Council, Sanjana manages closed landfills in the shire in accordance with EPA regulations and overlooks efficient collection of all kerbside waste collection in the shire. She is also a sustainability metrics lead at Two Hands, a start-up working on transparent supply chains in the hospitality sector connecting producers directly to restaurants. Sanjana's most notable achievement is moving to Australia to start her journey in the field of sustainability and completing her Master's degree. She is also a founding member of the Master of Environment and Sustainability Student Association, which was awarded the title of Student Champions for the Green Impact Program and was nominated for the 7NEWS Young Achiever Awards VIC 2019-2020.

In her spare time, Sanjana enjoys playing badminton and getting out in nature to explore hiking trails. She wishes to tick scuba diving to explore shipwrecks off her bucket list one day.
